“ One of my favorite memories of Aunt Jo was in the den at her previous house. Madison and I had blown up balloons and were playing "keep as many in the air at all costs." Aunt Jo played right along, giggling and flailing, and that is some of the hardest I've ever laughed.

She has always been a resilient encouragement. We all go through hard times, but none of us have to become them. Aunt Jo and her sisters have always been a testament to the choice we have, to laugh.

“ She was a career woman and a college student at the same time. Her home was always open to visitors, and I don't ever remember her being too busy for us. When vacation time came, I guess she could have traveled anywhere she wanted. Fortunately for her extended family, it was usually spent bringing her mother to see us. How blessed we were with our Aunts and Uncles in the West family, and how wonderful was our time with Aunt Joann!

A beautiful gem of a lady, friend, and coworker..... always smiling..... We could hear her in the hallways at work and recognized her contagious laugh., before she ever appeared. We always welcomed that a ray of sunshine that was about to appear. How privileged to have known her mother, Mrs. Daisy and fellow coworker, Luella. Blessings to all her remaining family.
